Walsh Community Center

Also known as the McDonough Gym and the PAL, the Walsh Center was decommissioned by the City of Boston in 2010. Gavin Foundation took ownership as a continuum of our mission. We are dedicated to keeping kids involved in the community and away from drugs and alcohol. Children and teens need a safe place to play and learn and the Walsh Center is a vital part of our prevention strategy in working with Boston youth.

The Walsh Center is an active spot for the community and continues to serve as the home gym for many local organizations including CYO basketball, South Boston Girls Softball, Pop Warner cheerleading, BNLB summer league, and the Tenacity after school program. We are committed to making reasonably priced space available to our nonprofit neighbors.

Youth and teens are invited to drop in for our weekly Open Gym and Game Room after school every Wednesday, Friday and Summer Sundays.

Pick up Basketball, Can-Jam and Volleyball games are available.

Membership and all Gavin Foundation programs at the Walsh Center are free for participants.

Visit our Facebook page for updates and announcements of upcoming programs.
